The Plymouth Reporter says that "Mr. Winans must be contented with seeing his friend Bouck elected to the executive chair." But Mr. Winans will never see the day when his friend Bouck will fill the executive chair.

General Bragg claims that there is a hole large enough in the Bragg-Delany bargain and sale for him to crawl through. General Bragg is a very small man, politically as well as in stature, and can crawl through a very small hole.

The defeat of the tariff bill, though not unexpected is none the less to be regretted. The democratic party stands pledged to tariff reform. —Detroit Free Press.

Yes, but does the Free Press call to mind any defeat of the democratic party ever redeemed? The defeat of the tariff bill was very natural, very just, and when the national convention pledged the party to "tariff reform" or free trade, it knew that the promise would never be made good.

The Fort Howard Knights of Labor have issued a call for a state convention which shall oppose the one called at La Crosse for July, by the Indiana doctor.

The Fort Howard Knights want there at Fond du Lac, and is called for the purpose of placing a full state ticket in the field. An address just issued by the assembly advances as a reason for the movement the necessity of so modifying existing laws "that every person may know whether he or she is doing what is right between man and man; that the law must be made so plain that ordinary persons can understand them; and that they must be made so short and few that the people will have time to read them."

While many democratic papers are hectoring against the 35 democrats who voted with the republicans to refuse to consider Morrison's tariff bill, the Philadelphia Times, democratic, says:

"The revision of the revenue laws, including both the internal taxes and custom duties, which has been promised by both parties, could not be accomplished by the Morrison tariff bill. The house was therefore right in refusing to waste its time upon a measure that did not meet the demands of the country and that could not be made effective.

"The Times is right. The present tariff law may need some tinkering due to some time, but not now. Besides, Morrison's bill was not the right thing. There was too much free trade about it regarding some articles.

Mr. Henry Watterson, the dashing democratic editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, is in Paris and writing a brief article on American politics for the American Register, of that city, describes Mr. Cleveland as a well-meaning man with thoroughly honest purposes and firmly convinced that the Republic could be saved by working thirteen hours out of the twenty-four. But he has had no training, and his intelligence is not of the first order. He has been especially unfortunate in the selection of his cabinet. Three members of it he took from the senate, where they could be much more useful, and three others were obscure men who had no record and no great abilities. The result is that the democratic party has been much divided, and that the administration at the present moment has not many friends.

Mr. Blaine, on the other hand, has a great personal following still. The reserve which he has maintained, and the quietness in which he has lived for some time, does him immense service, and undoubtedly if the nomination of candidates were to take place now he would be chosen as the candidate of the republicans."

The Washington Globe has recently published an interesting article called "The long and short of it," in which it describes Senator Sherman and Senator Spooner. The article says: "Mr. John Sherman, president pro tem. of the senate, and Mr. John C. Spooner, one of the senators from Wisconsin, when conferring together, make a spectacle which is truly unique and picturesque. The former very often descends from his official perch and mingles with his fellow members in social converse without exciting any special comment, but when he mingles with Mr. Spooner a striking panorama is produced. Mr. Sherman is very well grown for his age. He stands six feet two inches in his summer socks, and weighs about 180 pounds. Mr. Spooner only gets up to five feet and five inches in his Wisconsin boots, and his 145 pounds would not make the weakest variety of scales the least bit weary. And when they stand together and converse, a fatherly manner, like unto that which distinguishes his warrior brother, Tecumseh, comes over Mr. Sherman, while Mr. Spooner involuntarily responds by assuming somewhat of the air of a school-boy who is being given a choice lot of valuable advice by a guide, philosopher and friend. It is a very touching scene, worthy, indeed, of an artist's pencil."

There is no such thing as pleasing the eastern newspaper papers. They won't be comforted, not even with a president who so dearly loves civil service reform. The Boston Herald, which thought that the democratic party could do no wrong under the inspiring influence of a reform president, has found a good deal of fault lately, and in regard to Congressman Holman's re-election it says:

"The presence of five postmasters in the convention that nominated Congressman Holman—presumably men whose appointment had secured—was not, complete with that quiet and unobtrusive exercise of individual political rights" which President Cleveland has declared to be "the reasonable measure of party service" for public officials. It was, in fact, quite of a piece with that "outrageous manipulation of local party management" which Mr. Cleveland objected to as "obscurely patrimonial" in those who "used their places for party purposes." Inasmuch as Mr. Holman devoted his

SICKENING SIGHT TO BE SEEN—A CRUEL ILLINOIS FATHER'S CRIME—THE WIFE-KILLING MISERABLE AGONY—HOUSE SHEDDING—TERRIBLE DOUBLE TRAGEDY IN IOWA.

AVONIA, Iowa, June 21.—Sunday morning at 2 o'clock William Farrell had a quarrel with his wife and turned her out of doors after most shamefully beating and bruising her. Charles Ellis, his son-in-law, and D. Heller, night watchman, went to arrest Farrell, who wanted them not to enter the gate. Heller spoke to Farrell, who then upon being hit, killing Heller instantly with a double barreled shotgun. Farrell then pointed the gun at Ellis, who stepped out of range, and when Farrell fired he missed him. Farrell then threatened to kill any one who came upon his premises, but said he would surrender, although he would not come out of his house, which he kept perfectly dark. This begged Farrell to take care of Heller, and thus he was killed. Farrell then raised up his head, and told Farrell he had killed him. Farrell then brought out a pillow to put under Heller's head and said: "I have killed him, and now I will take care of you. I will shoot you if you do not get up, and in a few minutes the report of a gun was heard. An investigation soon followed by several citizens, and it was discovered that Farrell had executed his threat of suicide. He had come out of the house and shot himself, falling dead on the walk not far from the body of his victim. This was done in the absence of the police, who were not called until after the tragedy. Farrell had been drinking Saturday night and had a fight with his wife, at which he threw three dishes and other weapons, besides poisoning her with his fists, finally killing her. He then turned on himself, and placed the gun in his forehead and fired.

SICKENING SIGHT IN TEXAS.

PORT WORTH, Tex., June 21.—News reached here Saturday of a lynching near Sipe Springs, in Comanche county. Two young men, D. E. Pruitt and John Morris, discharged sheep herders, had planned the murder of Isaac Hostetter, a wealthy ranchman, who is a widower and lives alone with the exception of his 3-year-old son. Before the plan could be put into execution Morris weakened, and revealed the plot. On the arrival of Morris and Pruitt at the house of Hostetter, on Monday night, they were met by five armed men, a rope was cut once around Pruitt's neck, and with his hands tied behind him he was thrown away. The body of Pruitt was found Tuesday hanging to a tree two miles north of Sipe Springs. Up to Saturday no inquest had been held, as most of the country officers are out of the country on account of the body had been hanging in the air five days and presented a sickening sight, yet it is visited daily by dozens of curious people. Pruitt's relatives live in Jackson county. He came to Texas from Mississippi. Morris is a northerner. Pruitt was perforated with bullets before he was strung up. He pleaded pitifully for his life.

TRIPLE TRAGEDY IN ILLINOIS.

A Father Cuts His Own and His Two Children's Throats.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 21.—Jacob Swingley, 32 years old, Friday night cut the throats of his two small children and then committed suicide. The weapon used was a razor. One of the children, Maggie, 4 years old, was dead when found. The other, Albert, 3 years old, will recover. Swingley persuaded the children to sleep in his room, and according to the boy's rather incoherent statements, committed the deed shortly after midnight. The family was aroused at 3 o'clock Saturday morning by the faint cries of the wounded boy for help. The room when opened presented a ghastly spectacle. Swingley was prostrate across the threshold almost beheaded with his left hand raised, as if in agony, and his right hand raised as if in prayer. His little daughter was lying at the foot of the bed with her head almost severed from her body. The boy was seriously gashed about the left side of the neck and face.

Last January Swingley's wife died. Her demise apparently crazed him. He became sullen and despondent and never permitted his children to get out of his presence. Friday he borrowed a razor from a neighbor and indicated a brief note as to what disposition he desired to make of his property. He was in fair circumstances.

GRAVE DIGGERS WERE THEY.

A Cowardly Wife-Murderer Chased by Two Boys—One Slightly Wounded.

GARDNER, Mass., June 21.—For about a year Charles W. Cobley and wife of Templeton, have lived in a daily quarrel. Cobley kept his wife in a room at Templeton, and Cobley divided his time between Dalwellville and Templeton. At 5:30 Sunday afternoon he went to his wife's house where the family were at supper. Mrs. Cobley saw him outside and shouted "My God here comes my husband." She ran into the pantry. Cobley entered the house, followed his wife into the pantry, and shot her in the back. She ran to the kitchen. He followed and shot her again. The woman fled to the street, where the brutal husband followed a third time and she fell down by the roadside. The three bullets all entered the back within a space of a few inches square. Two 15-year-old boys chased Cobley and stoned him. He shot one of the boys in the thigh, inflicting only a slight wound. The boys continued to stone the murderer, one stone inflicting a fearful cut under his left eye. Cobley ran three-quarters of a mile, when the boys, assisted by one Sidney Lilly, captured him and delivered him to the officers. The murdered woman was about 24 years old and was looking Cobley is about 34.

HYDROPHOBIA IN THE MILK.

Three Members of a Kentucky Family Afflicted with Rabies.

CINCINNATI, June 21.—The people in the neighborhood of Hebron, across the river in Boone county, Ky., are very much excited over a case of hydrophobia in the family of a farmer there. A. Belmont, in the household went mad last week. Without a knowledge of its condition it was allowed to run around as usual. It finally bit a milk cow. The cow showed signs of sickness and was killed and buried. Since that day the cow showed unmistakable signs of hydrophobia. About the same time a child of the farmer became similarly affected from nourishment on the diseased milk. The symptoms are most prominent, and the sufferings of the child are most terrible. Two other members of the family are similarly attacked, but there is some hope of their recovery.

The Red Cross Society.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21.—Miss Clara Barton, president of the American Association of the Red Cross, furnished to the press accounts respecting the progress of the work of the Red Cross of the Red Cross of Chicago. Miss Barton says the real and legitimate Red Cross of this country knows nothing of the above-mentioned "brothers," and that the work of an association of this kind is to mislead. Miss Barton adds that the real Red Cross does not wound, but seeks to heal; that it is the insignia of every military hospital, and officer or attendant on the wounded in a civilized world, that it is true to the government, the people and humanity, and can not be aggressive or hostile with any society or violence.

The Pope Against the Knights.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 21.—The decree of the council of the Roman Catholic church, recently held at Quebec, having been called to the mind of the pope, the pope has issued a pastoral letter containing them. For the reason that the Knights of Labor is a secret society existing in several different countries, and may contain its members in one country by acts at variance with the interests of that country by an order issued in a foreign nation, and for other reasons, the pope says, the church can not tolerate the Knights.

Canada and the Fisheries.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 21.—Hon. A. W. MeLellan, minister of fisheries, says the instructions lately sent out to customs officers provide that American fishermen can buy bait or supplies in Canadian ports, and have any other commercial privileges; but if they remain twenty-four hours in the harbor in the three-mile limit and fish, or prepare to fish a Canadian citizen will be placed on board and the facts telegraphed to Ottawa.

ROGERS ENTERS SUIT AGAINST GARLAND AND OTHERS.

Over a Little Matter of $1,700,000 in Stock of the Concern—Comment on the Suit—Adjournment Talk—Business for the President—Logan's Memo Rite Views—Denial of a Story.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 21.—J. Harris Rogers, the inventor of the Pan-Electric telephone, has brought suit in the equity court here against Attorney General Garland, Senator Harris, and other members of the cabinet, and Col. Casey Young, to recover money, stocks, or certificates of stocks, which Rogers alleges they have drawn from the corporation, and $300,000 besides to recover the same. Rogers claims that through breach of contract on their part he has been ruined to the extent of $1,700,000. Rogers in his bill of complaint, says that the condition of the suit is that Rogers is entitled to the stock of the corporation, and that the defendants are to be held liable for the same. Rogers claims that the defendants have drawn from the corporation, and $300,000 besides to recover the same. Rogers claims that through breach of contract on their part he has been ruined to the extent of $1,700,000.

Why is it, Doctor?

Asked Mrs. Williams, of old Dr. Evans, yesterday that Bruce & Brown's uncolored faintest tea is so much superior to those other uncolored teas that one buys in bulk? One of the main reasons, replied the doctor, is that Bruce & Brown import their faintest tea only in the Perfection tea can, and as that is an almost air tight metallic package, none of the original aromatic and invigorating properties of the sensitive leaf can possibly escape.

A dispatch from Rockford says that the light was the cause of a fire in the Marcellus block store at 630 last evening, resulting in a damage of some $3,000 to the stock, which was fully insured.

The case of Thomas Hardy, of Center, charged with assaulting Wm. Bowman with a hammer, came up in the municipal court to-day. The defendant was given until to-morrow to file a bill of abatement.

The remains of the late W. R. Thompson, whose death was caused by his own hand in New York recently, were brought to Wisconsin for burial and the sad rite is being performed at Waubesa to-day.

The laying of the street car track will now compel our people to rigidly obey the law—turn to the right. Especially will this be required in passing through East Milwaukee street, between Main street and the bridge.

Perhaps the alderman who said a day or two ago that "nothing under heaven could get the street railway company permission to lay their tracks in the center of the bridge," would like to take back a few of his statements and make some amendments.

The music box refilled off by Walter Helms, Saturday night, was won by Mr. James Hickey. Mr. Hickey has a strong appreciation of fine music, and this box, which is a handsome one, will undoubtedly be his constant companion.

When a public officer arrives at a point where he cares nothing for public sentiment, and boasts of it, public sentiment will care less for him. This is true throughout the world, and at this time is very forcibly illustrated in Janesville.

Stereopticon views to-morrow and Wednesday evenings, 22d and 23d, in and for the benefit of First M. E. church Janesville. Extinct animals, views grand and lively, the most stupendous of ancient ruins, art, sculpture, scenes instructive and amusing. Admission 10 cents.

The Rev. C. B. Hall, of Milton, occupied the pulpit of the First M. E. church yesterday, delivering two very excellent sermons. Mr. Hall is a young man of more than ordinary ability, and promises to rank well as a preacher. He is at present attending the Milton college.

The Gazette office is indebted to Mr. and Mrs. B. Spence for a choice collection of flowers from their well cultivated garden on Pleasant street. Mr. and Mrs. Spence enjoy the reputation of thorough and successful gardeners and the soil, even in a time of drought, is made to bud and blossom like the rose.

The third quarterly meeting service was observed at Court Street church yesterday. In the morning the pastor preached a sermon on the Atonement which was filled with suggestive thoughts and convincing arguments. In the evening the second lecture on "Sunday and its observance," was delivered.

And now the five aldermen who tried to "jam" the rushing current of public opinion on the street car and bridge matter are anxiously looking for some way to save themselves from an early grave. They will probably be a little backward next time about climbing to the top of a ladder just for the fun of falling down again.

Children's day services were held at the Baptist church yesterday, both the auditorium and the Sunday school room being decorated with flowers and foliage. A sermon upon "What children may do for Christ" was preached by the Rev. Dr. Hodge at the morning service and afterwards a special service was held in the Sunday school room, in which the children took part. A collection was taken for the benefit of the Baptist Publication Society.

Several communications written in condemnation of the action of the aldermen who stayed away from the special meeting of the common council on Saturday evening, are declined. While we are always ready to condemn such malicious conduct in public servants, we do not believe in getting down to low personalities. One or two of the writers too free in accusing certain ones of abuse, and if they are true, as stated, the court and not a newspaper, is the proper place to ventilate them.

We take it for granted, heretofore, that when the common council refers a matter to a committee of such public importance as a street railway company occupying a public street or bridge, that the committee will be called together by the chairman and the matter given the consideration it deserves. We are informed by a member of the highway, street and bridge committee that that committee has not been called together since its appointment by the mayor, yet many important questions have been referred to it. Hence the Milwaukee street bridge imbroglio.

There is a demand in the first ward that the street car line be extended along Ravine to Pearl street instead of turning up Washington street two blocks nearer town. A petition to the effect signed by one hundred and fifty property owners along Washington and Pearl streets has been presented to the officers of the company but has not yet been acted upon.

It is thought that extending the line farther into the ward will encourage the building up of unoccupied parts of the city and will therefore do a great deal of good.

Saturday afternoon as Mr. R. Wiggin was driving in the first ward with his two grandchildren, the little son and daughter of Dr. Drake, the horse became frightened and bolted. On Milwaukee street, near the corner of Franklin, the hind wheels of the buggy struck a farm wagon. The three occupants were thrown to the ground, Mr. Wiggin being stunned and his granddaughter receiving a scalp wound on the back of the head. The boy escaped with only a few bruises, so that what was feared to be a fatal accident, ended very fortunately, without anyone being disabled or severely wounded.

"Oh, but this water is cold!" stammered a young man as he found himself in the river up to his chin yesterday afternoon. He had been walking around on the upper dam for some time, and growing courageous had ventured out on a single board. He went out to the end of the twelve-foot plank and then the boy who was standing on the other end stepped to one side. There was a sudden "teeter," a howl of dismay and a young man arrayed in his Sunday best was doudling in the bosom of old Rock. He was pulled out, after being thoroughly moistened, and is now as smiling as ever; but it is feared that the English language which was overworked terribly in expressing his sentiments, will not entirely recover for several days.

Last Friday Marshal Hogan received a letter from the Chief of Police of Madison, asking if anyone in this city by the name of W. H. Greenman had lost an overcoat. The marshal made inquiries and found that the coat belonged to an employee of Bort, Bailey & Co. It had been hung up in the store, and when Mr. Greenman went to look for it he found it was missing. On telegraphing back to Madison it was learned that a man, apparently a vagrant, had sold the coat at one of the second hand stores in that city and that in one of the pockets was found a coat ticket bearing the name of W. H. Greenman, Janesville. The man was arrested as a suspicious character and Marshal Hogan, going up to the capital yesterday, brought him to Janesville. He is now lodged in the county jail, having given his name as John Goodrich.

Could those aldermen who purposely stayed away from the special meeting of the common council on Saturday evening, for the purpose of showing their contempt for public improvement, and the will of the public as expressed in petition, hear the expressions of contempt for them, they would hardly be the first to skip in at the last moment to catch the plums. Such consciousness may be pleasing and may be applauded by a certain class of citizens who take delight in such a disreputable abuse of public authority, but it is condemned on every hand by those desiring to see fair play. We have no desire to dictate to any alderman how he shall vote on any public question. They are sent to the common council for the purpose of obeying the charter of the city, and not for the public good. Willingly, now days, they accept these public offices, and willingly should they step forward and cast their votes one way or the other. When the public demand certain action in conformity with the charter, it is their duty as public servants (not masters) to vote on it, and not show their contempt of such demand by staying away from a called meeting. We have no sympathy for such tricksters, they are republicans or democrats. They are not men, in one sense; they are demagogues, and sooner or later will find their true place.

Personal.

Mr. L. S. Clarke, of the firm of Clarke & Tuckwood, is spending a few days with friends at Hebron, Wis.

Mr. C. A. Leake, of Lincoln, Nebraska, spent Sunday in Janesville, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Young, North Bluff street.

Mr. R. P. Young, the foreman at Thoroughgood & Co's box factory, starts to-morrow morning for a brief visit to relatives at Lincoln, Nebraska.

Captain M. H. Doty, of Brodhead, was in the city a short time to-day, shaking hands with his friends. Mr. Doty is now the popular proprietor of the Young house at Brodhead.

Dr. W. H. Perry, of Girard, Michigan, who came here two weeks ago to receive medical treatment from Dr. W. H. Judd, returned home this morning much improved in health.

George B. Wright, formerly with Bort & Bailey, of this city, but now with Field & Co., Chicago, came yesterday night to greet old friends, and spend Sunday with his parents. He returned to Chicago this morning.

Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Judd have returned home from a visit south, attending the National Electric Medical convention at Atlanta, Georgia, where the doctor presented an interesting paper on "Human Longevity," also visiting the battlefields and national cemeteries of Chattanooga, and other places of interest connected with the war of the rebellion.

Mr. R. E. Wilson, of Beloit, was in the city to-day in the interests of the Senior Concert, to be given by the class of 1895, of Beloit college, at the Congregational church of this city Wednesday evening, June 30. Among the attractions announced, is Bach's celebrated orchestra, Charles Knorr, the Chicago tenor the Chicago Lady Quartette, and the renowned prima donna, Miss Abbie Carrington. The concert will interest the music-loving people of Janesville, and can not fail to draw a full house.

He went out to the end of the twelve-foot plank and then the boy who was standing on the other end stepped to one side. There was a sudden "teeter," a howl of dismay and a young man arrayed in his Sunday best was doudling in the bosom of old Rock. He was pulled out, after being thoroughly moistened, and is now as smiling as ever; but it is feared that the English language which was overworked terribly in expressing his sentiments, will not entirely recover for several days.

Last Friday Marshal Hogan received a letter from the Chief of Police of Madison, asking if anyone in this city by the name of W. H. Greenman had lost an overcoat. The marshal made inquiries and found that the coat belonged to an employee of Bort, Bailey & Co. It had been hung up in the store, and when Mr. Greenman went to look for it he found it was missing. On telegraphing back to Madison it was learned that a man, apparently a vagrant, had sold the coat at one of the second hand stores in that city and that in one of the pockets was found a coat ticket bearing the name of W. H. Greenman, Janesville. The man was arrested as a suspicious character and Marshal Hogan, going up to the capital yesterday, brought him to Janesville. He is now lodged in the county jail, having given his name as John Goodrich.

Could those aldermen who purposely stayed away from the special meeting of the common council on Saturday evening, for the purpose of showing their contempt for public improvement, and the will of the public as expressed in petition, hear the expressions of contempt for them, they would hardly be the first to skip in at the last moment to catch the plums. Such consciousness may be pleasing and may be applauded by a certain class of citizens who take delight in such a disreputable abuse of public authority, but it is condemned on every hand by those desiring to see fair play. We have no desire to dictate to any alderman how he shall vote on any public question. They are sent to the common council for the purpose of obeying the charter of the city, and not for the public good. Willingly, now days, they accept these public offices, and willingly should they step forward and cast their votes one way or the other. When the public demand certain action in conformity with the charter, it is their duty as public servants (not masters) to vote on it, and not show their contempt of such demand by staying away from a called meeting. We have no sympathy for such tricksters, they are republicans or democrats. They are not men, in one sense; they are demagogues, and sooner or later will find their true place.

DROWNED.

Noah White Drowned at Greenland.

At three o'clock this afternoon news reached the city that Noah White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spooner White (colored), was drowned while bathing at "Greenland," three-quarters of a mile above the upper railroad bridge. The young man was about eighteen years of age, and was subject to epileptic fits, and it is supposed that he was thus attacked when the accident occurred. Parties hastened to the scene to recover the body, but at half past three o'clock it had not been recovered.

The bereaved family, who are industrious and hard working, will receive the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

Silver Wedding at the Home of Hon. and Mrs. A. H. Barless.

On the 18th of June, 1891, Mr. Andrew Barless, of the town of Harmony, was united in marriage to Miss Margaret J. Burdette. The ceremony took place in Lima, and was conducted by Rev. Andrew Walker. In commemoration of this event, Mr. B's second marriage), and also as a recognition of his services as president in leading the singing in the United Presbyterian church in Johnston for thirty-nine years, his many friends in the congregation planned and successfully carried out a genuine surprise upon himself and lady on Friday evening last, June 18th. His epicureous house, was filled to overflowing with guests, and a most substantial supper was served. In the course of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Barless were "announced to one of the parlors, and Miss Minnie Douglas, in behalf of the donors, presented them in a fitting and happy manner, an elegant silver water service, a set of Chambers' cyclopedia and a nicely illustrated copy of Pilgrimage Progress. Mr. Barless responded in a feeling manner. Mr. and Mrs. R. Cheney then sang in their touching manner the song "We're growing old together." Rev. Dr. McLaughlin then addressed the married couple of 25 years standing, with remarks suitable to the occasion. In response to loud calls Mr. Barless sang in his characteristic way some Scotch songs which brought down the house every time. The time passed pleasantly away in conversation, song and some impromptu speeches. Very unfortunately a serious mishap occurred early in the evening. Miss Maggie Henry was thrown from her buggy while driving into their yard the horse taking fright at a dog. She sustained some injuries, which it is thought will not be serious. Dr. Mills, one of the guests present, promptly tendered his services.

We should add the presents above mentioned were the contributions of the members of the Congregation of the Scotch church. A number of individuals present of much value were also given, Mr. and Mrs. Barless have the hearty congratulations and best wishes of their many friends in their rounding the 25th mile stone in the journey of their married life. This recognition of their public services and personal worth was eminently appropriate and just.

Field Day for Sunday Schools.

The custom of setting apart one Sabbath in June as Children's day, is becoming universal. In our city the second Sabbath has been fixed upon by most of the churches, while some observe the third. Yesterday morning might have been seen long lines of carriages in the town of Center, loaded, fathers, mothers, and children going to the two churches, together with many delegates from Janesville, to unite in celebrating the happy occasion of Children's day. The exercises were conducted by the officers of the Rock County Sunday School association, J. T. Wright presiding. Addresses were made by the following gentlemen: Messrs. Saterfield, Cheney, Kane, Rev. Milton Wells, Father Wiggin, Dean and Field.

The music was charming, choruses by the children, besides duets by Mr. and Mrs. Cheney, which delighted the audience.

In the afternoon we went to Footville, where are two schools, making a union of four. The addresses were spirited and appropriate. The church was packed, with carriages in line by the windows, where sat an outside audience. The day was fine and the interest in Sabbath School work in Center and Footville has risen fifty degrees.

All the workers are refreshed and work will be our motto henceforward.

Attempted Highway Robbery.

About eight o'clock Friday evening, Mr. O. B. Hall, a well known farmer living east of the city, while on his return home from here, was accosted by a man on the hill near the Laramy place, who asked the privilege of a ride, and Mr. Hall cheerfully took the man aboard. The stranger began conversing immediately, talking upon common topics. Soon he said: "I suppose the farmers are pretty hard up just now." Mr. Hall said that there was some complaint. "Well you had better hand over what you've got," said the passenger, and with these words he dealt Mr. Hall a hard blow in the face, at the same instant grasping him by the collar. The movement caused Mr. Hall to fall out of the wagon and the highwayman went out with him striking on top of him. A fierce battle was fought for a minute. When Hall fell out his arm was through the lines, which were buckled together, and the horses began backing up and to act badly, and realizing the probability of a runaway he turned his attention to the team, whereupon his assistant fled. Had it not been for the team Mr. Hall could have captured the villain—Belt Free Press.

SHOT ON THE STREETS.

A. E. Morse, the Cashier of a Stevens Point Bank (Shot and Killed by a Prominent Attorney.

Later on Saturday evening a report was circulated on our streets that Mr. A. E. Morse, for many years a resident of Rock county and of this city, had been shot at Stevens Point. Soon the report was confirmed, and the particulars were eagerly sought, but could not be obtained. The Milwaukee Sentinel of this morning contains the following dispatch, which gives all the details yet received:

"STEVENS POINT, June 19.—About 5 o'clock this afternoon, the people who happened to be in the public square were startled to see A. E. Morse, cashier of the First National bank, in a carriage, leaning over the side, the horse running at full speed. An investigation developed the fact that he had been shot, and that W. W. Haseltine, of the firm of Raymond & Haseltine, did the shooting. Mr. Morse had been out riding with his wife, and had just taken her home and was returning to the stable, when Haseltine stepped into the street near the residence of Matthew Wapleigh, and hailed him as he was driving past, at the same time firing three shots from a revolver, one of which proved fatal. Several persons witnessed the shooting. Haseltine surrendered himself to the authorities, and was locked up in jail.

Morse came here from Mendota about three years ago, and, with E. G. Newhall, of Janesville, and several business men of this city, started a bank, of which he was made cashier.

Morse died within five minutes after the shooting. The post mortem examination shows that the bullet entered the right side between the fifth and sixth ribs, thence passed through the upper lobe of the liver, thence through the diaphragm, thence through the right ventricle of the heart, out between the third and fourth ribs, and lodged in the flesh under the left nipple. Morse never spoke after the shot. Three shots were fired, but only one took effect, although there were only a few feet between the two men when the pistol was fired.

W. W. Haseltine is a young and promising lawyer, who has had the best of success in his practice, and he has many friends. This makes two shooting affrays in Stevens Point within forty-five days.

The correspondent intimates that the shooting resulted from a scandal which had been going on for some weeks.

A dispatch was received from Mr. E. G. Newhall this morning, stating that the remains would reach Milton Junction at noon to-morrow, and it is not known whether they will be taken thence to Johnston or brought to this city. Mr. Morse was a young man possessing many excellent traits of character, full of energy and ambition, and was at the time of the shooting, cashier and manager of the First National bank at Stevens Point, president of the Business Men's association at that place, and held one of the highest offices in the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias of this state. He had many warm friends in this city who are saddened at his tragic and untimely end.
